In 2021, we received an inquiry from a customer about 5T/day High Yield And Easy To Operate Industrial Tunnel Dehydrated Garlic Powder Dryers, and the customer got the contact information of our company through the introduction of his friend. Our company has more than 10 years of export experience for Egyptian customers, and has a very extensive knowledge of Egypt and communicates with customers. After the basic information, I learned that the customer company has a lot of experience in drying, and the customer company mainly produces fertilizer, feed and so on.

Now their company is developing and wants to dry black soldier flies, and our old customer introduced him to our company. We analyze the market situation with customers, analyze the needs of customers, and understand the input and output of customers' drying. After our engineers understand the customer's needs, they immediately make a plan for the customer. The plan includes the factory area required by the customer, etc. We have listed all the problems that the customer will think of, and the customer is very satisfied.

The customer has prepared a workshop for 5T/day High Yield And Easy To Operate Industrial Tunnel Dehydrated Garlic Powder Dryers, but because the customer's output is too large and the workshop is relatively small, we have made a layout for the customer according to the customer's workshop area.
