

Innovation in Action: Leads the Way in Continuous Microwave Drying for Rubber

In March 2024, we at Shandong Loyal Industrial Co., Ltd. proudly welcomed a delegation of technical experts from the Thai Agricultural Institute to engage in a collaborative exploration of cutting-edge technologies, particularly in the realm of industrial microwave rubber drying. The visit marked an exciting juncture in our ongoing efforts to push the boundaries of innovation within the rubber processing industry.

The delegation arrived with a specific objective: to leverage our expertise in continuous microwave dryer for rubber to conduct experiments in industrial microwave rubber drying. Armed with two large barrels of liquid rubber, our clients expressed keen interest in optimizing the drying process to meet their stringent requirements regarding oil content and protein characteristics in the final product.

Under the guidance of our dedicated technical team and the leadership of our esteemed colleague, Dan, we embarked on an intensive two-day journey of experimentation and discovery. Leveraging the capabilities of our state-of-the-art industrial microwave rubber dryer, we meticulously fine-tuned the drying parameters to achieve optimal results, ensuring that the dried rubber met our client's exacting standards.

The outcome of our collaborative efforts exceeded all expectations, as our clients expressed utmost satisfaction with the quality of the dried rubber. Impressed by our expertise and dedication to delivering superior results, they wasted no time in formalizing our partnership by signing an exclusive agency agreement.
